

Turnkey Solutions

If your company sells a product through seminars, then ZDOCS can help. Companies that sell through seminars generally hold hundreds of seminars throughout the year. Usually the product these companies sell requires a complete kit. The kit will most likely have a hardcopy manual or book together with CDs, DVDs and other marketing pieces. To effectively manufacture all the components, the company's purchaser will need several vendors producing one of the components. These components are then delivered to the customer who then has employees build the final kits.

Producing kits in this manner can be frustrating and costly, especially if you add up all the hidden costs like unexpected overtime and mistakes. Because of ZDOCS purchasing power and on-site facilities, ZDOCS can manufacture the components more cost effectively. In addition, your purchasing manager now only has to make one phone and ZDOCS will take care of producing your product and delivering anywhere in the world.
